Parent Advocates

Karen and Claire work with parents with learning disabilities.

Karen and Claire do not work for Social Services.

They are here to support you.

What is an advocate?

An advocate makes sure that you understand any information you need to know.

An advocate listens to your point of view.

An advocate supports you to say what you want to say.

An advocate makes sure that your needs are thought about.

An advocate is there with you at meetings.

An advocate helps you to understand any paperwork.

An advocate makes sure you have the right support.

When does an advocate get involved?

An advocate can really help make a difference.

If you are a parent with a learning disability, and you are going through Child Protection, and advocate can support you.

If you are going through court with your children, an advocate can support you.
